Who are we: building an alternative local food chain together

Do fresh, seasonal groceries directly from farmers and makers in your own region. Rechtstreex makes that possible. You order online or take out a subscription and enjoy the best the region has to offer. This way you know where your food comes from and you support farmers who are working on an attractive landscape in your region. Everyone in this local food chain gets a face and is as committed to good food as you are. In this way we make a difference together and we build an alternative local food chain.
